Record a video of about three minutes or less and attach a link to it. Please include the following:

Describe a non-course research project, a hobby, or another STEM-related experience that you are proud of. Paint a picture of your interests and passions as they relate to STEM topics through this project. What inspired you to pursue it? How did it influence you to pursue a STEM career? What did you learn that you think will be valuable as your career progresses? And how do you think you can inspire other women to pursue careers in STEM?

This section is very important to distinguish yourself from other applicants. Note that we will judge this video first, on the following, before we consider the remaining portions of this application:

- originality,
- project results,
- passion,
- future-thinking.

Production quality is not a criterion, although we should be able to hear you and see what you have done clearly. Please see last year's winner at <https://tacunasystems.com/scholarships/scholarship-recipients/>
